

ILM Level 5 Certificate in Effective Coaching and Mentoring Virtual Programme Cohort 15

Developing the skills to help others through change, build their resilience, unlock potential and improve performance.

Delivered in partnership with

WME believe in the power of coaching and mentoring to help develop others. Done effectively it can empower people to step out of their comfort zone, develop their resilience to face challenges and act as a transformation tool to bring about positive change.

Our ILM Level 5 Certificate in Effective Coaching and Mentoring is aimed at developing the coaching and mentoring skills of practicing or potential senior leaders.

The programme provides a great opportunity to develop your leadership capability and skills, adding to your repertoire approaches to deliver 1:1 and group coaching as well as 1:1 mentoring.

What to expect from the programme

By investing in the development of your coaching and mentoring skills both you and your organisation will see positive benefits.

Personal benefits

Through the programme you will:

- Understand and learn how to apply coaching, mentoring, leadership and learning models and theories
- Advance your coaching and mentoring skills through practice and observation
- Be challenged and supported in improving personal performance
- Be able to self-evaluate your skills and qualities as a coach/mentor
- Understand how organisational objectives can be met through coaching and mentoring
- Plan, deliver and review coaching and mentoring within your workplace
- Gain insight and knowledge sharing with colleagues across the West Midlands region

Organisation Benefits

Leaders with well developed coaching skills positively improve people's performance, resilience and ability to adapt to changing circumstances.

This in turn adds pace and innovation to your organisation by increasing capacity within teams, bringing confidence to explore and develop new ideas, releasing the tensions of change which enables people to think positively about the future.

Having leaders as coaches has a wider and lasting impact across the whole of the organisation as it develops a constructive culture where positive coaching approaches and conversations are used in everyday business not just in a formal coaching setting.

An additional benefit for both individuals and organisations is that it provides a route to join the West Midlands Coaching and Mentoring Pool or your organisation's internal pool (See more details on page 5).

Who should attend?

If you are...

- A practicing or potential senior leader
- Wanting to make a valuable impact within your team or wider across your organisation
- Looking to develop a skill set that allows you to work constructively and positively whilst managing challenging day to day decisions
- Keen to gain an in depth understanding of coaching and mentoring and apply these skills

...then this programme is for you.

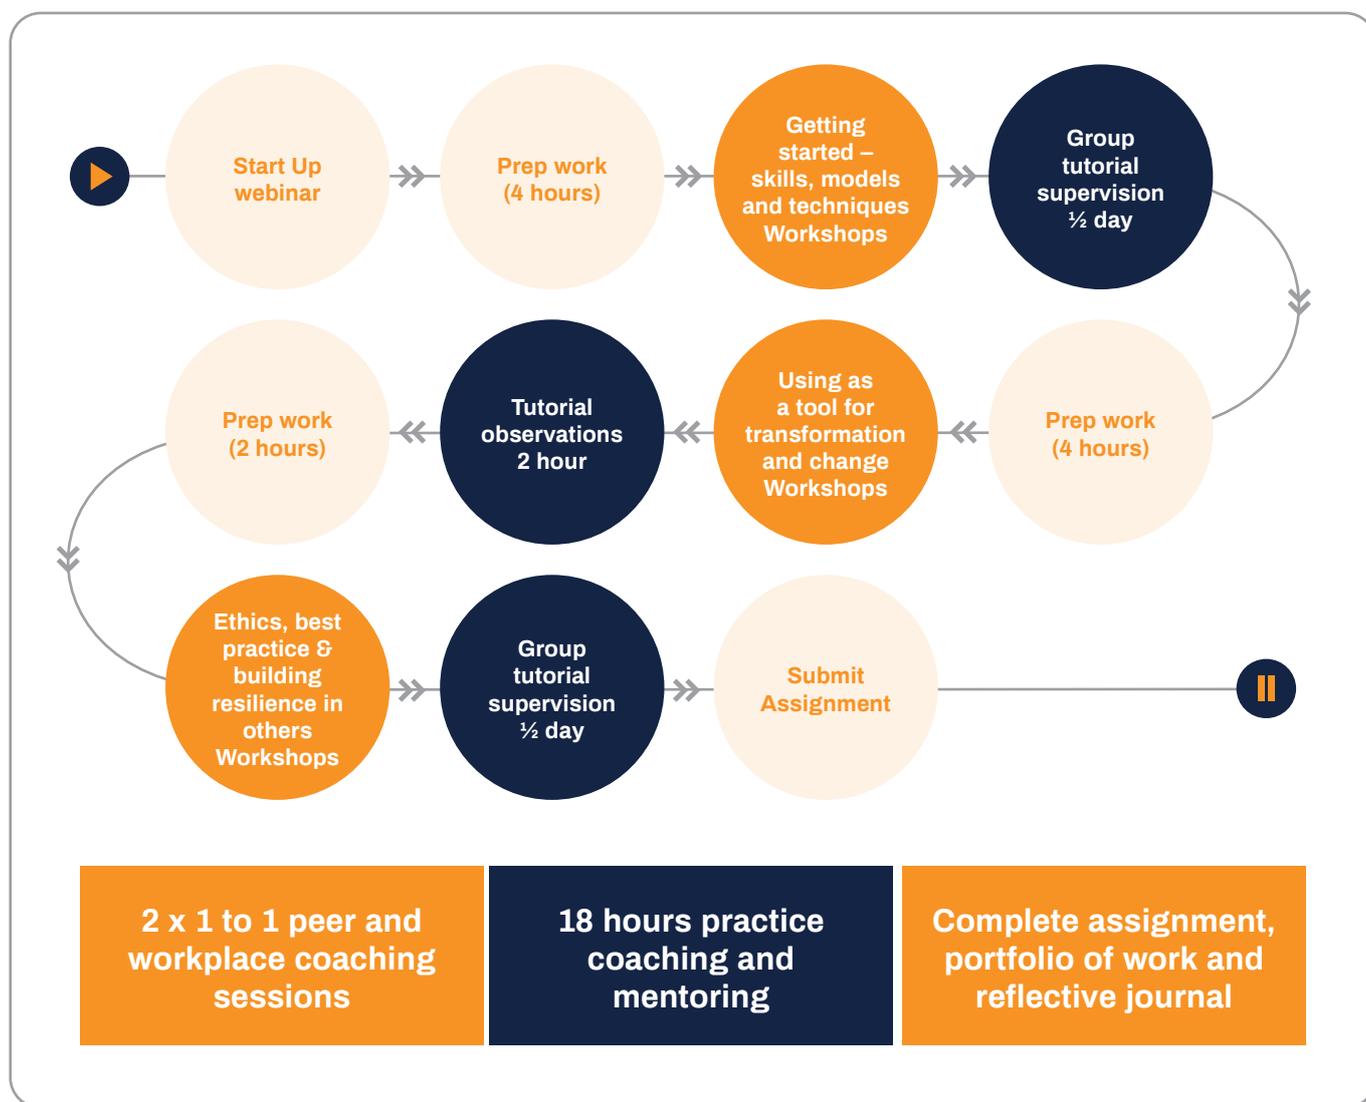

The programme qualification is designed for people who will have significant responsibility for effective coaching and mentoring as part of their daily role within an organisational context.

Duration

This 10 month programme requires you to:

- Attend a virtual induction session
- Attend virtual workshops
- Join 2 virtual Group Supervision sessions
- Receive 2 hours of tutor observation of peer coaching
- Complete assignments, pre-session reading and tasks
- Carryout 18 hours of practice coaching

Elements of the programme

The practical nature of this course means that you will apply what you learn by coaching and mentoring real clients. From the outset, you will need to identify colleagues to work with achieve the hours of practice required for the qualification. However, some of the practice hours will be achieved through observed peer to peer coaching and mentoring with participants on the programme.

To gain the ILM qualification:

The qualification is awarded following attendance at all the programme events, a minimum of 18 hours coaching and mentoring practice and the successful completion of one assignment; a portfolio of your 18 hours of recorded coaching and mentoring practice and a reflective journal.

Delivery Approach

Our approach to develop you as an effective coach and mentor includes:

- Interactive learning and tutor demonstrations
- Real life work discussions with practical tips and solutions
- Latest thinking by exploring models and techniques to optimise performance
- Plenty of skills practice and feedback through 1:1, group and peer coaching
- Resources to support learning and application to work
- Tutorial supervision and guidance

Enhancing your learning through receiving coaching, observation, and action learning

Research has shown that “training alone provides 22% performance gain but training alongside coaching increases that to 88%”¹...so we are not only going to train you as coaches, you will also benefit from receiving coaching as part of the programme to make the most of your learning.

You will also have observed coaching and mentoring sessions with feedback from an experienced coach. This may sound a bit daunting, but how do you know how you are doing if no one tells you? This is an invaluable feature of the programme to really enable you to hone your skills.

We also use a group coaching approach in the group tutorial supervision sessions in between workshops, enabling you to share issues, concerns and work together to build a range of options/solutions/ approaches that meet these needs. This approach enables you to give and receive feedback from other participants, embedding a coaching culture and further developing your skills.
